We like to say that BaseVac Dental may be new to you, but we are not new to this!

Under the leadership of founder Ray Ralph, BaseVac's parent company R.E. Morrison Equipment (REM) has been designing and delivering custom-designed vacuum systems, air knife blow-off systems and compressed air solutions since 1986. Many of North America's largest beverage producers, food packagers, printers and manufacturers trust REM's products on their production lines.

In 2007, Ray launched BaseVac Dental to bring industrial-grade vacuum performance, reliability and repairability to dental practices across Canada. Thanks to our industrial roots, BaseVac vacuum systems are designed to deliver the highest vacuum performance in the market, allowing our vacuums to work in situations where other dental vacuums can't.

Today, Ray's son Adam leads BaseVac in an exciting new phase of expansion, partnerships and growth throughout North America.

BaseVac vacuum systems are used and trusted by dental practices of all sizes ranging from 1 user mobile clinics to 5-7 user independent practices to 200+ user custom clinical systems at University of Pennsylvania, University of Toronto, and dozens of other large clinical customers.
